DOVER HIGH A PIPE FOR PORTSMOUTH HIGH'S TEAM

Portsmouth High 16; Dover High 6. That about tells the story of the game played here on Wednesday afternoon between the old-time rivals for athletic honors. It was a good game up to the seventh, with Portsmouth following the lead set by the visitors in run getting and in the local who gained an extra one in the seventh, making the score 6 to 6.

But in the eighth things began to happen and Berry, the visitor's pitcher gave a pretty exhibition as an aviator, going up in the air so high that the attitude record for pitchers was threatened. After the team had batted around in this session Berry was relieved and Cole, first baseman, changed places with the worried man. But this time five runs had been scored and Coach Cragan started sending substitutes to bat. They didn't need to bat for Cole was no more effective than was Berry. Haines walked one and was hit by a pitched ball his second time up. Levine reached base on an error and was walked for his second attempt. Donovan, batting for Kennecally, was hit. Woods, batting for Bailey, walked, forcing in a run. With the bases full Ted Butler broke the hearts of the visitors by smacking out a hit to deep right for the circuit. With the bases empty and the home team ten runs to the good, two out and darkness settling over the grounds, Smith made an effort to end the game by fanning. He went after the wide ones and at that moment failed to fan for the catcher dropped the third one; but Smith took his time trotting to first and was finally thrown out, thus ending a pretty farce. NAVY YARD MEN SUBSCRIBING FOR LIBERTY LOAN BONDS

The Portsmouth Navy Yard Improvement Association to the number of 700 or more members held an enthusiastic meeting on Wednesday evening in Pierce Hall which was addressed by Mr. W. T. Reid of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, and Naval Constructor L. S. Adams, Industrial Manager of the Portsmouth Yard. Both speakers were interesting and their audience was fully appreciative of their efforts to present the Liberty Loan to them in a new light, the light of its absolute necessity if the United States and her allies are to be victorious in the war against Imperialism and Militarism. A fact not generally known was made public at the meeting when it was announced by Thomas W. Phelan, president of the association, that a movement is on foot whereby nearly every member of the association will soon be the holder of one of these bonds. Teams are at work in the different shops of the yard in the interests of subscriptions to the loan and nearly every man has signified his intention of subscribing. The association has appealed to the department at Washington for permission to have the pay officer in the capacity of a collector for the banks handling the bonds the pay officer to retain the amount necessary each week from the pay of the workman, and to turn this over to the banks. Every bank in the city has agreed to the plan, with the permission of the navy department, and the bonds will be sold on the installment plan.

The officers of the yard and of the association believe that the navy department will be willing to allow this plan to be put into effect and word on this ruling is expected at any time from the Secretary of the Navy.

Explained Needs of the Loan
Mr. Reid gave a graphic account of the conditions growing out of the war which made the Liberty Loan a necessity to the war's success for the Entente Allies. He spoke largely of the success to date of the campaign for subscriptions throughout the country and especially of its success in New England. Mr. Reid also spoke of the absolute necessity for the entry of the United States into the war, not so much for the friendship which this country has for France, England or Russia, but for her own protection. He closed his address with a strong appeal for all persons able to subscribe to the limit of the capacity for taking care of the loan.

Consequences of Defeat
The fearful predicament into which the United States would fall in case the Entente Allies are not victorious in their war against German Imperialism was pointed out in a striking address by Mr. Adams. Mr. Adams spoke for more than an hour on the subject of the war, renewing the events which brought this country into the world struggle, and the effect the war was having on the country up to the present.

Mr. Adams said that defeat by Germany in the present was meant the subjugation of the world by Germany, and the United States would not be neglected in this if Germany proved the victor.

Speaking of the causes and the necessity of the United States taking part in the struggle on the side of the allies against Germany, Mr. Adams said that had we not declared war on Germany and a sudden peace had been declared the United States would have been the first nation to be attacked independently by Germany. Germany has no love for us, he declared, and with Germany powerful and poor, and the United States rich and weak, Germany would have come here to collect her war indemnity. With the United States entry into the war this plan is eliminated, he said, for the United States will not sit at the council table with her allies and Germany can not make separate war on us without the other nations stepping in.

Mr. Adams also made an appeal to the members of the association to assist in making the Liberty Loan a success by subscribing for as much of the loan as they could afford. He spoke of the financial needs of this nation and its allies, which must be taken care of by the individuals in the country. He pointed out the fact that the country would not only be benefited by the loan and that each holder of a bond was proving himself a patriot, but that it was a safe investment as well.

He closed his talk with a review of the industrial advancement of the yard in the past few years and the possibilities for its future advancement. He said that within a very short time the Portsmouth Navy Yard would be employing 3000 men in its various departments and that the number would likely go even higher within a couple of years.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Phelan, president of the association, and was one of the most enthusiastic and interesting in the history of the organization.

AMERICAN FLAG POPULAR IN ITALY

(By Associated Press)

Rome, June 7.—The Stars and Stripes has become decidedly popular since the entry of the United States into the war, but the scarcity of the American flag prevents its display in many of the public places where are hung together the flags of the allies. In one street demonstration that took place this day the United States declared war an old flag was resurrected for the occasion, carrying but 34 stars, the flag having been made in Baltimore before the Civil war.

During a demonstration that occurred before the American embassy, several hundreds of button-hole flags, prepared for the occasion, were tossed into the crowd and since that time these tiny flags have been worn about Rome.

INSURANCE MEN UP IN ARMS AGAINST STATE

(By Associated Press)

The Hague, Netherlands, June 7.—The proposed state monopoly of the life and fire insurance business in the Netherlands ultimately would yield $6,000,000 annually according to the rough estimate of Finance Minister M. W. D. Trefk. The object of the plan, which would only very gradually come into operation, is to find the money needed to meet the prospective new war loan, thus leaving the field of fresh taxes for the needs of urgently called for social legislation.

Meantime the insurance men are up in arms against the government's designs on their business, prophesying only evil and financial failure for this projected experiment in state socialism.

First Month of Service for U. S. Destroyers With British Fleets Shows American Jackies Taking Hold of Work Like Veterans--Sailors Astonish Natives by Spending Money Freely

(By Associated Press)

British Port, headquarters for American Destroyer Fleet, via London, June 6.—The American destroyer fleet has completed its first month's duty in the operations against the German submarines, the period being marked with excellent weather, a great factor in fighting against U-boats. The American fleet has been working hand in hand with the British fleets, and in fact, has been practically assimilated with the British vessels engaged in this special work. The American destroyers are doing their share of patrol duty, searching work, and convoy work in the North Sea and from the daily reports the Americans have taken to the work with a keenness which is remarkable. The American Jackies have shown in this one month a willingness to work and are accomplishing as effective results as are the British with the long months of experience.

No actual battles between vessels of the American fleet and German submarines are reported as yet but German U-boats have been sighted several times and driven below the surface, not to reappear.

The convoy duty, especially for a "ship from home" is considered a choice morsel by the American sailors. When a trans-Atlantic liner sights the American flag on the destroyer which is to act as her convoy the exchange of flag salutes, waving of handkerchiefs in place of handshakes, and the calling of greetings is well worth the trouble the bluejackets are facing.

Shore liberty for the American sailors is generous and they have been taken into the hearts of the people of the town, the surrounding towns and a nearby city. The American sailors are living up to their reputation of spending money freely, much to the astonishment of the people. The American sailor always seems to have plenty of money, which is not the case with the British sailor, as the British sailor receives far less pay.

BALTIMORE AND INDEPENDENTS PLAY TONIGHT

The fast U. S. S. Baltimore baseball nine, champions of the nine baying fleet, will play the Portsmouth Independents at the South playgrounds this evening, the game to be called at 6:00 o'clock. The sailors can be depended upon to put up a rattling good exhibition as was evidenced in their game against the High School on Monday.

The Portsmouth team will number some classy players and the game should be interesting. Among those in the Portsmouth line will be Bill Leary, Ralph Bennett, Spike Jordan, Ted Butler, Paul Bailey, Jack Bailey, Art Davis, Jack Thompson and others.

ENGLAND TO GIVE RUSSIA WAR TERMS

LLOYD GEORGE TO INTERPRET THE PHRASE "RESTITUTION AND GUARANTEES."

London, June 6.—Premier Lloyd George will shortly make formal statement of England's interpretation of the phrase "restitution, reparation and guarantees" so that the world in general, and Russia in particular, may know exactly what the nation's war aims are.

The Liberal press was strongly urging such an outline today and authoritative information was that it had been decided on by the government.

Statement of All Allies

While Premier Ribot of France clearly announced that republic's war aims, President Wilson has forwarded a formal note to Petrograd. It is believed here, which outlines the position of the United States. A similar specific and full statement from England, and other allies, will mean a complete answer will have been returned to the recent demand of the Russian soldiers and workmen's council that all of Russia's allies restate their war aims and peace ideals.

The British press without exception today applauded Premier Ribot's speech of yesterday and the action of the French Chamber of Deputies in affirming France's intention to continue prosecution of the war until her loss provinces have been reclaimed and her war aims fully realized.

DR. BLACKWOOD HELD BLAMELESS BY COMMITTEE

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 6.—The Protest or "Hound Robin," signed by thirty sailors on the U. S. Hospital Ship Solace charging the commander with mistreatment of patients was declared to have been based on "hearsay" by the special committee appointed by Secretary Daniels to investigate conditions. The three appointees interviewed 100 of the patients who were on board the hospital ship at the time and made their report to the Secretary, which Mr. Daniels made public tonight. The members of this board were Dr. William H. Webb, John S. Hopkins University; Dr. Abram Flexner and Nathan Straus of New York.

In their report the examining board found that during May Dr. Blackwood and his assistants had to face unanticipated emergencies which they handled admirably and they also found that the commander and his assistants gave the patients every care, all that they asked for, and all that they needed for their comfort.

In making the report public Secretary Daniels said that this should prove a reassuring message to the parents of men serving in the navy. He also said that it was gratifying to be assured by this civilian board of ex-aminers that the Solace was being conducted in the highest degree of efficiency.

EXPATRIATE CONSCRIPTION DODGERS OF U. S.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 6.—Congressional recognition of the slackers who deserted the country to avoid registration for conscription came today when Representative Taylor introduced two bills in the House—one to expatriate any citizen who flees to any country to escape registration and conscription, the other to prevent such persons from returning here.

GUARDSMEN TO GO TO FRANCE

Washington, June 6.—The best trained national guard regiments will be the second force sent to France.

The probability that some New York units, some from Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Illinois will be the first to go. This is based solely on speculation, since no authoritative statement has been made by Secretary Baker. Some of the units which served on the border are virtually intact. Philadelphia newspapers today named four Pennsylvania regiments, all of which are now doing guard duty, as having received orders which were construed to mean they would be among the first to go. Officials will not confirm this report.

The general understanding is that the French expedition and the troops which follow will go in small contingents.

If American soldiers are handled like French and British troops they will first spend some time in the trenches in portions of the front which are relatively quiet and later be moved along to more active points.

Portsmouth, N. H., Thursday, June 7, 1917.

Speculation the Chief Trouble.

Such a report as comes from Chicago regarding the manipulation of foods to force up or keep up prices is enough to make the blood of every honest man and woman boil and to cause the country to demand a law which will effectually stop the practice, which this paper has long believed to be the greatest single cause of the high cost of living. It realizes that there was a shortage of some crops last year and that war conditions usually result in rising prices, not only of foodstuffs, but of practically all commodities, but it does not believe there is any sound justification for the prices of most food articles which prevail today.

Government investigators who had been looking into the coal situation in Chicago recently discovered at a suburban station 15 cars loaded with potatoes. Shipping directions on the cars indicated that the potatoes had originally been sent to Chicago, and their condition was such as to lead to the belief that they had been set on the siding to spoil in order to keep up the price in the market.

It is this sort of thing of which the people have a right to complain, and it is this sort of thing that the government should protect the people against if it is possible to do it. And there is reason to believe it will be found very possible when the government is ready to move in the matter, as it should be at once. Like the people, it has done a great deal of talking. The time is at hand for action.

For this reason there is satisfaction in the news that a bill has been favorably reported in the United States Senate providing penalties of from six months to three years' imprisonment for the malicious storing of foods or other necessities. The committee to which this bill was referred says in its report that "it is a matter of common knowledge that speculators and dealers throughout the country are taking advantage of the present economic situation to extort unreasonable profits from consumers. These offenses are particularly heinous in times of war. Speculating and profiting by the necessities and hunger of the people in such a time cannot be too severely punished."

All of which is true. It is a matter of common knowledge that these are the practices from which the people are suffering grievously today, and it is high time for the government to act. If it cannot protect its people from such outrages it is not worth fighting for. But it can if it will, and there is reason to believe that it will. Mr. Hoover is a man of action rather than of words, and the chances are that when he gets his forces in working order there will come a change which will be as grateful to the public as it will be unwelcome to the conscienceless leeches who are willing to fatten off the public's necessities.

The people of Portsmouth and vicinity are doing their full share of war gardening, and when the crops mature it will be well for boys and others to remember that the Legislature at its last session enacted a law providing very severe penalties for stealing vegetables and fruits, and that the courts will see to it that the penalties are imposed in cases of conviction. This country is now in no mood to tolerate such practices as have prevailed in the past; and people who raise farm and garden crops are to have the full protection of the law.

The highway department of the state does well in determining to keep its expenditures this year as low as possible, consistent with the reasonable care of the roads. There is no dodging the fact that economy is in order at this time, and the practice of it by public bodies and officials will have a wholesome effect upon the people as a whole. There will be time enough for "business as usual" when other conditions become as usual.

There are no slackers when it comes to positions as paymasters' assistants in the navy. On the other hand, the number of volunteers far exceeds the demand. The young men should remember that there are other places where they are wanted, even if not quite so desirable, and face the music as it was faced by their forefathers on numerous important occasions.

Total prohibition, it is considered in England, would be a failure, according to a dispatch from London. What effect will this have in the United States, which just now is very much inclined to follow the lead of England?

Now it is claimed that the German U-boats have been equipped with a cutting device which enables them to move through a net with the ease of a knife passing through soft butter. The "menace" has not yet been removed.

The fire alarm system cannot be put in order or replaced too soon. This will cost money, but it will not cost as much as a disastrous fire. "A stitch in time," etc.

If the weather man would chip in a little more sunshine we should all be much "oblinded."

From the Exchanges

It Is To Laugh

(From the Springfield Republican)
A dispatch about the arrival of the Root commission in Russian territory is dated very mysteriously as follows: A Russian port, Sunday, June 3, via Tokio, June 3, 11:30 p. m.
Could anything be more cleverly calculated to deceive the Germans? There is only one Russian port anywhere near Tokio, but no German, of course, has ever heard of Vladivostok.

An Inducement to Bond-Buying
(From the Worcester Telegram)
A Silein company which employs people working on leather announces that it will give each employee as many liberty bonds as he buys and pays for in the next six months. There is a chance for premiums on Liberty bonds that has not been mentioned in any other place.

Even Ex-Presidents Improve
(From "The Herald's Topics of the Town")
President Wilson is more fortunate in one respect than was Abraham Lincoln. Our two living ex-presidents are supporting every big war measure with as much vigor as if they were still in the White House themselves.

When Ford Sumner was fired upon there were five ex-presidents alive—Buchanan, Van Buren, Tyler, Pierce and Fillmore. Each had behind him a considerable political following.

But those five ex-presidents by no means stood as staunchly behind Lincoln as Roosevelt and Taft stand behind Wilson. Some of them were openly hostile to Lincoln's war policies and one of them was hostile to the United States itself.

A little optimistic pabulum for those who will insist our folks are not so wise or good or patriotic as they used to be.

Unscrupulous Retailers

(From the New York Commercial)
It should not be necessary to warn some offending retailers that they are flirting with danger when they ignore the reductions of wholesale prices and maintain the same level for their wares that the highest market rates perhaps justified. It is reasonably certain that under extreme provocation the consumer will make himself heard most effectively, unless fair rules of trade are pursued by the purveyor to the household.

Americans are long-suffering patients to a fault, as witness our forbearance with the outrages perpetrated upon us by Germany before we decided to strike back. But when the time comes to act there is no action.

The experience of shopkeepers in Paris in the early days of the war are fresh in the mind. No one wants to see stores raided by an angry people here. Such a thing is scarcely probable, but it were well not to tempt fate.

When the price of wheat was soaring to unprecedented heights, the price of bread was sent up with it, for flour kept pace with wheat's rise. Now, however, that wheat and flour are far below the price that obtained when the bakers put up their price and cut the loaf to the smallest size known to the oldest inhabitant there should be a reciprocal change whereby the consumer can benefit.

The same applies to other foodstuffs. When, recently, potatoes took a drop many retailers persisted in charging the prices they put upon them when the market was at the top. There are stores that even now are holding to such prices.

The indifference to the consumer is unfair. Honest business methods and good citizenship go hand in hand, but at a time like this such combination is superlatively patriotic and safe.

Price of Bread, Come Down!

(From the New York World)
With flour $3 a barrel cheaper than it was two or three weeks ago, many bakers are still charging 15 cents for what was formerly a 10-cent loaf. Will the bakers initiate Crockett's con and come down of their own accord, or will the gun of regulation have to be aimed at them?

Speak to Them, Somebody.

(From the Chicago News)
Flour is now little more than $14 a barrel, but apparently the bakers have not heard anything about it since it was $17, for they continue to charge 15 cents for a loaf of bread.

Would Be a Gun-Stock Lode

(From "Glad's Topics of the Town")
In the Philadelphia Public Ledger
If somebody told us how to put into Pennsylvania ten mines as rich as the "Comstock Lode," or how to duplicate our anthracite coal lands, or to drop down in our midst three concerns as big as United States Steel, and do it for virtually no cost, what should we say?

We should name towns, counties and colleges after him, and when he died we would build him a monument as high as the City Hall tower. But I expect no reward whatever—least of all do I crave that monument—for a five-billion-dollar suggestion.

I read in an up-state paper that a farmer sold a black walnut tree for $200. That crop cost him not a penny to produce.

Black walnut grows well in Pennsylvania, and it does not, as do many other trees, injure the grain and grass beneath it. Were all of our quarter of a million farmers to plant one hundred trees each, this crop would take care of itself, and in a couple of generations it would ripen into a product worth as much as ten "Comstock lodes." But of course we don't think well enough of posterity to endow it with five billions—unless it be five billions of debt.

Under One Flag

(From the New York Tribune)
Somewhere in one of Henry Sydney Harrison's novels there is an appealing statement of what the Civil War meant to the South. It was fought in the South. It was fought along the roads, across the fields, in the homes of the South. What to the North, or most of the North, was a terrible but distant monster was a familiar and devastating scourge to Virginia and the other border states. There was the same essential difference then that there is today between the point of view of France and the point of view of America with respect to the Great War. Hannaghton can never take the place of cold steel was the point then as now.

We of today, in reading of the Confederate ceremonies at Washington, will do well to bear this in mind. We are playing at war as yet. We are trying to imagine what the word "sacrifice" means while the nation of Joffre is bleeding hour by hour. We are talking in long words of humanity while the greatest sacrifice ever made in the name of civilization is being poured out on the fields of France.

Plain humbleness of spirit we should take from the spectacle of gray and blue uniforms uniting in a march up Pennsylvania avenue this week. These men gave to their faith the last measure of devotion. They passed the one test by which a people can prove itself and the works of civilization be preserved. Each side hazarded its every possession of life and happiness. And if these two enemies, the one victorious and the other defeated, can today join hands in celebration of the united nation they now serve, how shall our present-day bickerings and personal fortunes seem by comparison?

It is a long road we must travel before we can claim the right to march abreast of these veterans of the '60s. May we never show less courage, less free-handed giving to our cause, than did these soldiers of the South! And may we ever be grateful for the splendid spirit that brings them and their sons and daughters under the one flag in this day of its greatest peril!

DUE TO LACK OF SYSTEMATIC INSPECTION

Pittsburgh, June 7.—Chronic conditions in the administration of private charities due to lack of regulation on the part of state governments were revealed in a discussion here today at the National Conference of Charities and Corrections. The evils that have arisen are due chiefly to lack of systematic inspection and advice, according to the leader of the discussion, Robert W. Kelso, Secretary of the State Board of Charity of Massachusetts.

"There are in operation throughout the several United States, at least 15,000 incorporated charities," said Mr. Kelso. "They have well up toward $2,000,000,000 in capital funds. That sum if well administered on high standards of skill, is a great force for social betterment. If ineffectively handled under a system that does not tend toward good standards of service, it will be largely wasted and the good purposes of the donors defeated. It dishonestly handled, it is worse than nothing; it becomes a menace to the public welfare."

"This field of charitable endeavor is teeming with citizens who seek earnestly for social advancement. An increasing number of them are skilled and able to analyze their problem. Some of them have little more than good intention. Their experience is nothing; their skill and capabilities are nil; their effectiveness zero. And there are others who are predatory. They live upon the charitable agency, appropriating its benefits to themselves, pretending falsely that their purpose is charity."

"To whom does these vast capital funds belong? Do they constitute a trust for the indefinite public? Is it the function of the government to hold charitable agencies to an account for their husbandry? If it is, has our popular form of government the strength to accomplish such oversight without depressing the standards of excellence in the enterprise?—of putting politics into charitable relief?"

"If the government should supervise what is the best method of doing it? Shall it be by permissive inspection as in Massachusetts, or by license, as an annual accounting be required as with children's agencies in Ohio? Shall in Massachusetts without strict enforcement, or shall it be a thoroughgoing system of accountability and governmental regulation with penalties that mean something?"

Now that the war and the belated summer are here we all have more or less cause to be more or less anxious. There are many things to make us glad during this crisis, we have been relieved of a grievous war tax on films and incidentally the film industry has received the recognition of the government which will place the motion picture on a stronger and better position than ever before.

REGISTRATION OF ABOUT 35,000 NOW INDICATED

Complete return of the registration in New Hampshire are still lacking, but it was stated in Concord last night at the hour of closing Governor Keyes' office, that the counties so far reporting indicated the total registration for the state would be about the 35,000 estimated by the governor before the work began.

Reports of the campaign to secure enrollments for the national guard, the army and navy on Registration day, were also incomplete, but were indicative of excellent success for the movement.

In Concord these reports of county registration had been received:

Cook 3,198
Hillsborough (excluding Manchester) 5,163
Belknap 1,651
Cheshire 2,251
Manchester, as the Union stated yesterday, registered 3,351.

A speech to the Union from Dover last night gave the Stratford county figures as 3,012.

Reports received by A. H. Jenks, the chairman of the recruiting committee of public safety, which sought on Tuesday, Registration day to secure enough enrollments throughout New Hampshire to fill the ranks of the National Guard, indicate that the total enrollment will be approximately from 1,500 to 2,000.

The guard needed 800 men for its war quota prior to Tuesday. Choice was presented to the men who enrolled as to which branch of the service they preferred to enter, whether infantry, artillery, cavalry, signal company, coast artillery or field hospital company.

Definite numbers had been received by Mr. Jenks last night from 66 cities and towns, and some of these were incomplete returns especially from the cities, with Berlin, where the enrollment was especially good, yet to be heard from. So far, 1,450 men have answered the appeal for men for the national guard. Claremont, Newport, Berlin and several other large places where Mr. Jenks has heard from there was a large enrollment.

In addition, there was a large number of enlistments, and while the enrollment blanks were furnished for army, navy, marine corps and national guard, the latter branch of the nation's forces seemed to have the call although several men were accepted for the naval branches.

AIR RAID ON ENGLAND COSTLY FOR GERMANY

Only Ten of the Eighteen Airships Which Started Returned to Their Base--Italians Give Way Before Austrians

(By Associated Press)

The German attempt to raid the coast of eastern England on Tuesday was costly for herself as only ten of the eighteen airships which started for the British coast returned to their base, according to official reports made public at midnight. Two of the invading machines were brought down by British fighters after one machine had dropped bombs killing twelve and wounding thirty-six, and of the other sixteen airships but ten escaped. Two were shot down by anti-aircraft guns and four others were sent down by British fighters who engaged the raiders as they attempted to escape over the English Channel.

German submarines are also faring badly at the hands of American and French armed forces. One submarine was sent to the bottom by an American steamer after a long battle in which the U-boat fired 35 shots and the American steamer fired 25. The last shot from the steamer is believed to have reached its mark as the submarine was seen to rise high out of the water, stern first, and then to suddenly disappear.

The French steamship Greconne also battled with a German submarine which attacked her in a heavy sea. The Greconne U-boat is not believed to have been sunk but after a long fight the submarine was forced to dive below the surface and she did not return for further attacks.

From the North Sea to the Channel-Belgium line the British and Germans are engaged in a fierce artillery duel, especially warm in the region of Dixmude. Between Steenstede and Het Sas, and in the region of Wytschate, south of Ypres, and on the southern bank of the Scarpe river the British are firing great quantities of heavy shells into the enemy and a massed infantry movement is looked for immediately. The British gained more than 1 mile of trenches and took 163 prisoners.

In the Italian-Austrian theatre of the war the Italians are losing ground to the enemy in the territory south of Janduno, which is near the head of the Gulf of Trieste. Reports from Vienna claim the capture of 271 officers and 6500 men from the Italian forces in this fighting.

WILL RECRUIT FOR ITALY IN UNITED STATES

Washington, June 6.—Details of an agreement under which unnaturalized Italians in the United States may be recruited by the Italian government, while naturalized Italians will be left to help American agriculture and industries, were today in the hands of Gen. Guglielmotti, military attaché of the Italian mission, to be worked out with American officials.

Gen. Guglielmotti will remain in the United States after the mission's departure to direct the recruiting, which will be entirely voluntary.

The mission today conferred with government officials and will attempt to finish its work by the end of the week before starting on a tour of American cities, postponed this week because of the Prince of Udine's illness.

OBSEQUIES

Joseph W. Sanborn

The funeral of Joseph W. Sanborn of Deerfield, who represented that town in the 1917 legislature, took place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home, Rev. W. H. T. Rock, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. The bearers were George W. Brown, Charles R. Brown, Otis A. Melton, Archie W. Stevens, Thomas E. Simpson and Benjamin C. Sanborn. The floral tributes completely covered and were banked about the casket. The attendance was large, filling the house.

Mr. Sanborn was born on the old farm, July 1, 1852, the son of Colonel Richard J. and Abbie Jane (Stearns) Sanborn. He was a home loving man and held in high esteem by all who knew him. No one ever heard him say "No" to a person in need. He was generous to the church and to his fellow-men.

Mr. Sanborn was never an office-seeker but was prevailed upon to have his name placed before the people at the November election and was elected to represent his town in the last session of the legislature. He will be missed in his home and everyone who was acquainted with him mourns his death.

His nearest relatives besides his widow, Jennie O. Sanborn, to whom he was married October 27, 1892, are cousins, Isabelle S. Stevens, J. G. Rand of Deerfield, Peter Sanborn of Concord, Frank Stearns of Derry, David A. Smith of Redlands, California, Mary J. Sanborn of New Jersey and Lawrence Sanborn.

The Amphion Quartet of Manchester rendered selections. Burial was made in the family cemetery near the home.

Mrs. Nancy M. Lang

The funeral of Mrs. Nancy M. Lang was held from the home, 172 Austin street, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. F. J. Scott officiating, assisted by Rev. Kirkwood Craig. The members of Fannie A. Gardner Lodge, No. 82, and Storers Relief Corps, No. 6, attended and held their services. The bearers were Thomas Entwistle, J. A. Peterson, Charles E. Whitehouse and M. H. Bell. Interment was in Harmony Grove cemetery under the direction of J. Verne Wood.

WOMEN TO BLAME FOR JAIL REVOLT

ACTING WARDEN OF JOLIET PRISON BELIEVES THIS INTERFERENCE CAUSED THE TROUBLE

Joliet, Ill., June 6.—Evidence that the revolt in the Illinois state penitentiary here, yesterday, was planned with care the preceding night was revealed today by prison officials. A. L. Bowen, acting warden, said he had known of the impending trouble, but because of the demoralized condition of the institution he considered that the outbreak had to come and that the sooner it was over the better.

"Misguided interference of women" in efforts at prison reform was blamed by Mr. Bowen for the lax condition of discipline in the prison.

"Through the efforts of a league organized to obtain women correspondents for the men," the warden declared "the mails became loaded down with letters, some from women 70 years old, others from school girls of 14 and 15. Their letters, for the most part were of the most suggestive character, and a favorite pastime of the prisoners was to gather and read their letters to each other, speculating on the appearance and character of the writers. The revolt had its inception in my order that such a state of affairs should cease."

"To show the length to which some women went: There was a woman, 65 years old, who came from Miami, Fla., to visit a prisoner 22 years old. At every station she telegraphed him, and when she arrived she brought a vast amount of gifts—fruit and clothing—which we were compelled to confiscate. Others wrote from Philadelphia, from California, and one from Alaska. Scores came from Chicago and other places to hush up with the prisoners. Obviously such a condition could not continue."

URGES THAT NEW ENGLAND GO TO SHEEP RAISING

New England's duty to the nation and to the allies is to produce sheep and herd them on the hills and pastures of this section of the country, in the opinion of A. S. Bigelow, secretary of the Philadelphia Wool and Textile association and also a member of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee.

He strongly urges that all of New England join New York and Pennsylvania in forestalling a meat famine by taking up the flocks disposed of by the northwestern growers who are going out of business.

"They are going out of the sheep-raising business in the northwestern states because the homesteading there has so reduced the grazing territory that the range for sheep in large flocks has been practically wiped out," said Mr. Bigelow, who was yesterday before the committee on food production and conservation of the Massachusetts legislature.

Continuing his statement, Mr. Bigelow said: "Because of this decrease in the grazing lands, the storms of this spring caused a loss of about 20 per cent of the flocks or something like 350,000,000 pounds of good mutton turned into carrion, and not more than 60 per cent of the usual number of lambs were dropped. As a result the sheep range is doomed. Fully one-quarter of the flocks will be sold off this season."

"Now," said Secretary Bigelow, "it would be one of the most practical and least expensive means possible to purchase these flocks, transport them to the New England states, where there is much excellent, wasted grazing land. By making such a move the New England farmers and others would not only be helping themselves, but doing a most excellent thing for the nation at large."

"The older ewes of the flock could be slaughtered for mutton during the winter. Any part of the younger ewes remaining could be sold or retained for plan adopted by the New York city breeding purposes. This is in fact, the committee, of which George W. Perkins is chairman and a similar plan is being worked out in Pennsylvania."

Secretary Bigelow recommended the organizing of a financing company to purchase the sheep and if deemed necessary to provide branch slaughterhouses.

He also stated that applications for sheep are coming to the state department of agriculture in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont. The committee was also informed at its session yesterday that a curfew of sheep has been delivered in Essex county already, and that some smaller lots are on the way to western Massachusetts pastures.

FAIL TO AGREE ON COALITION

Ottawa, Ontario, June 7.—Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the opposition appear to have failed to reach an agreement for the formation of a coalition ministry representative of the two parties in parliament. Coalition was proposed by the premier for the purpose of bringing support to the bill for compulsory military service to furnish reinforcements for the 400,000 Canadians at the front.

Great hostility to the compulsory service measure has developed in Quebec and in Canadian organized labor circles. Considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed in the agricultural districts. These conditions are believed to have led Sir Wilfrid finally to demand from the proposal that he bring his followers to unite with the conservative party which they now oppose.

Today the opposition leader called on the premier and is understood to have expressed his regret that he could not join with him in the coalition offered. Last night the prime minister called twice on Sir Wilfrid in the hope of inducing a modification of views but he is understood to have failed and that there will be formal statements in parliament today by the two leaders.

There is an intimation that the next move contemplated is for the prime minister to go over Sir Wilfrid's head to some of his liberal followers with an invitation to enter the Borden administration which would then be termed a union government.

An effort will be made to get a compulsory bill through parliament with the conservative and liberal votes which the premier believes he can demand.

SENATOR LEWIS CALLED UPON TO EXPLAIN

Washington, June 7.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis in the senate Tuesday tried to explain just what he meant when he stated to a Manchester audience that to elect Mr. Burroughs, the Republican candidate for congress in the first New Hampshire district "would be a vote for the Kaiser." He was also quoted to the effect that it might be said that Mr. Burroughs "was elected on the issue of dislodging the President and defeating America."

The apparent explanation by the senator from Illinois fell flat. He had no opportunity to say that he had been misquoted, as Senator Harding, who introduced the subject had provided him with the original advance copy of the Lewis speech sent out from the senator's own office to the New England newspapers. The Republicans of the senate resented the charge that Republicans were not loyal to the President and to the country. Mr. Weeks called attention to the fact that the words were spoken from carefully prepared manuscript by Senator Lewis, "who is the recognized representative of President Wilson, thus indicating that their purpose had been reached after deliberation."

Senator Harding remarked: "In making the world safer for democracy we ought to make democracy safe for the American people by putting patriotism above partisanship."

Conservative Democrats have nothing to say in extenuation of the Lewis speech as the records show how loyal the Republicans in congress have stood by the President as leader of the nation, regardless of their political or personal views.

After the debate had gone on some minutes and was getting bitterly personal, Senator Cullinger remarked: "New Hampshire did her duty and is satisfied." He then called for the regular order.

TRY IT AND SEE!

Lift your corns or calluses off with finger! Doesn't hurt a bit!

A noted Cincinnati chemist discovered a new ether compound and called it freezone and it now can be had in tiny bottles as here shown for a few cents from any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of freezone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can just lift it off with the fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezone or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It is wonderful! Soreness ingeal. It works like a charm. Genuine freezone has a yellow label. Don't accept any except with the yellow label.

BRAZIL IS WITHIN LAW SHE DECLARES

SAYS REQUISITIONING OF GERMAN SHIPS IS RIGHT UNDER TEUTONIC INTERPRETATION

Rio Janeiro, June 6.—Brazil has replied to the German note protesting against the requisitioning of German ships with a declaration that the republic has acted within the strict limits of the law, even as interpreted by Germany. The Brazilian reply says in part:

"The utilization of German ships by Brazil follows the torpedoing of Brazilian merchant ships and assures, directly and immediately, although by force, satisfaction for the losses caused by German submarines. Brazil is acting lawfully and on the basis of even German law. It has taken a step which all nations take, even without abandoning its state of peace, for the sole reason of forcing an offending nation to make due reparation."

The reply then quotes the opinion of the German authority on international law, Herr Heffron, and concludes:

"The government of the republic does not depart from the calm region of the principles of those laws which have previously governed international society and proceeds solely in defence of the flag and interests of its country."

The text of the note from the German foreign secretary, as presented to the Brazilian foreign minister, follows:

"I have the honor, in the name of the imperial German government to formally protest to the government of the United States of Brazil against the requisition and utilization of German ships anchored in the ports of the republic. I reserve to myself the right to demand an indemnity for all losses occasioned to German interests by such a measure."

The Henry Jewett Players are to open a summer season next week in the great English war play, "The Man Who Stayed at Home," one of the most thrilling stories of war since the days of Gillette's "Secret Service." The piece is to be played here through special arrangements just completed with William A. Brady who controls the American rights.

Though the title would seem to suggest that the play deals with the vital problems of enlistments, it is really a story built on the absorbing theme of the operation of the German spies in

COPLEY THEATRE

The acquisition of the lightweight title by Benny Leonard as a result of his recent knockout victory over Fred Welsh adds the eleventh name to the undisputed list of championship holders in this class since 1872. Arthur Chambers was the first of the lightweight brie knuckle pugilists to establish his claim to the premier position when he defeated Billy Edwards in Canada, September 4, 1872. Chambers is generally accorded the title until 1881 when he retired and was succeeded by Jack Dempsey. The latter soon grew too heavy and advanced to the welterweight division, being succeeded in turn by Jack McAuliffe. He reigned supreme until 1893 when he retired undefeated, being the last of the lightweight champions to lay aside the gloves without a blemish on his record.

Kid Lavigne then took up the title and it was not until 1899 that Frank Erne wrested the honors from Lavigne in a 20 round battle at Buffalo. Some three years later Joe Gans knocked out Erne in one round and for six years was generally conceded the championship, although Jimmy Britt also claimed it when Gans would not make the weight for him after he had stepped Erne in seven rounds. In the mean time Battling Nelson was rapidly gaining prominence in the division and after defeating Britt challenged Gans. He lost the first battle on a foul in the 42d round but followed with two knock out victories over the negro and was hailed as the undisputed title holder.

Nelson's reign lasted two years, he losing to Wolcott in February, 1901. At the end of four rounds of vicious fighting when he was both blind and helpless he still on his feet and the referee stopped the battle to save him from further punishment. On November 28, 1912, Willie Ritchie won from Wolcott on a foul in the 16th round. Some two years later Ritchie went to London where he lost his title to Fred Welsh at the end of a 20 round bout on the referee's decision. Welsh stayed off defeat for three years and it was not until his third ten round battle with Leonard that he was forced to give up the championship.

England; a theme that is of more than usual interest here in America because of the recent exposure of the fact that Berlin knew that our fleet was on the way to Europe long before we did.

The hero is an English spy named Brent, who depends upon the assumption of indifference to aid him in running down the enemies of the allies. He is so successful in his role that even the girl he loves thinks him a coward for remaining a thorn when men are needed in the trenches.

"This, however, is only one side of the story. There is the tense adventure in the seaside hotel, in which spy works against spy, ally against Germans. Carrier pigeons, wireless telegraph and telephones play their parts. After 3 acts packed with laughter and thrills, Brent exposes the German plotters, prevents information of the sailing of the fleet from leaving England and reveals himself to the girl of his choice in his true colors.

It is a timely play that reaches the heart, a play that every man, woman and child should see.

POTATO RAISE IS INCREASED IN AROOSTOOK

BEANS, WHEAT AND OATS GET ALMOST DOUBLE ACREAGE—BUCKWHEAT LESS.

Houlton, Me., June 6.—Aroostook county, the most important potato raising section in New England, will plant 27 per cent more potatoes this spring than last year, according to reports from all over the county to the food conservation committee. The increase in acreage of other crops will be even more marked and there will be no opportunity for ridges to comply of Aroostook county "putting all its eggs in one basket."

Some 52,445 acres of potatoes will be planted, against 41,084 in 1916, an increase of over 11,000 acres.

Beans show a tremendous increase, the estimated acreage for 1917 being 1705 acres, as against only 124 acres grown last year.

The wheat acreage is indicated as being 3805, as against 2532 grown last year. The reports show a slight falling off in the acreage of buckwheat, 5103 being the estimated acreage for 1917, as against 5406 in 1916.

The oat acreage will be more than double this year. Against the 33,091 acres planted in 1916, 81,111 are to be planted this year.

The phosphate shipments also indicate a larger acreage for 1917. During the 12 months ending June 1, 1916, the Bangor & Aroostook hauled into the county 67,000 tons of phosphate. Records for the 11 months ending May 1, 1917, show a total of 92,000 tons shipped into the county. This does not include May's heavy shipments.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the Portsmouth navy yard men are doing well on the Liberty Loan.

That in one shop they are taking from $50 to $1,000.

That by the looks of Market square this morning some farmer was shy for part of his land.

That most every secret and social organization in this city can do something on the Liberty Loan.

That the regulations have required the superintendents of the Coast Guard service to appear in uniform.

That the uniform is similar to that of a navy officer with green and gold stripes on the sleeve.

That the young apprentice seamen at the navy yard who go in camp on Monday should be thankful that they escaped some of the bad weather in tents.

That it looks as if there will be plenty of jitneys doing business this summer when the Boston and Maine cuts out the train service.

That a well known local resident is certainly showing his patriotism in the garden line.

That he had no place to plant but on top of the concrete.

That he purchased the necessary amount of earth which he placed over the concrete and then put in his vegetables.

That he is really surprised himself how the stuff is coming up.

That there was at one time much worry about thieves raiding gardens later in the season.

That the thieves will not be half so effective in the gardens as cats, dogs, and pigeons.

That the fact that some of the wards were without enrollment cards on Tuesday until a late hour, the government lost out.

That some of the female yeomen at the navy yard say Paul Revere's ride was nothing on the last one they experienced.

That the telephone operators at the Central Exchange would not mind if some people would make themselves a Christmas present of a clock.

That a carload of Scotch soldiers from Fredericton, N. B., passed through this city on the "Flying Yankee" on Wednesday night, bound for Boston.

That the Portsmouth Hospital will shortly add more pupils to the training school.

That when he registered under the draft law on Tuesday he insisted on answering Question 12 which was not really necessary.

That he filed a reason for exemption that he had a wife and two horses to support.

That he added that the wife could support herself but the horses were absolutely dependent upon him.

That the cat and dog in the family were not mentioned.

That many a woman enjoys seeing a man fool himself when he thinks he is feeling her.

That Ralph Brackett who has charge of the city garden plot says the land tenants are as peaceable as a Sunday school party.

That there is not the least ripple of excitement among them and every one is getting all that belongs to them.

That a blind lover often needs sympathy but he never cares to accept it until marriage has opened his eyes.

That Boris Vapalsky, a resident of Levysville, Conn., is a much married man according to his own statement.

That Boris has two families on both sides of the Atlantic.

That in his plea for exemption from war draft he said he had a wife and ten children in the United States and another in Russia.

That he ought to get by on that combination but the real trenches would be a relief to other men.

STOLE BANKBOOK
AND GOT $200
FROM THE BANK

Charges and Counter Charges of the Pedes in Police Court.

The spare moments of those connected with the police court have been taken up for the past three days with the troubles of John Pedro and his wife Amelia. Now the third actor appears with his troubles in the person of Mike Youick. Today John was to be tried for threatening bodily harm to Amelia but Amelia thought John did not mean all he said and she asked the court to take John's name off the roll.

The police shook hands with each other and extended congratulations, think the Pedes' visit had concluded and that the Dove of Peace was doing great work on the firing line on Russell street. However the serenity was of short duration and another balloon went up. This time it was Amelia instead of John.

Mike Youick is one of Amelia's boarders and the bankbook that Michael carries showed that he could be quite a help on the Liberty Loan. However Mike missed one of the books of debits and credits and he thought first he lost it. The police took up Mike's troubles and found that Amelia had been at one of the banks and annexed herself to two hundred pounds of Mike's deposit.

It was Amelia's turn to explain where she got Mike's book and what she did with the withdrawal.

Amelia fired out the alibi that Mike owed her $200 and that he gave her the book to cash up and pay the note. Mike used the ugly word and said Amelia was juggling the truth. Then Amelia came back with another story that Mike lifted a watch and $10 that was not his rightful property. Once more Mike charged Amelia with not being a habitual observer of the truth.

Attorney Mitchell appeared for Amelia and he wanted a continuance until Saturday. The court ordered a further hearing on June 9. Amelia, furnished $500 bail and immediately began to fix up the counter charge.

We've a big display of tub suits for the youngsters. Natty little models in very pretty fabrics, nicely made and prettily trimmed. The prices are attractive, too—$1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50. The sizes are 3 to 8. For the bigger boys we've also a big showing. Largely fancy mixtures, but some stripes and plaids, and plenty of blue serges. Price range, $4.50 to $10.00.

SHOE TALKS

10 Market St. "SHOES OF QUALITY" Portsmouth.

The word that has taken on a new meaning. Everyone is doing their "bit." Service has meant that in this store for years, everyone has willingly done even more than their part to protect our customers against any invasions of quality, style, or fit, always insisting that length of service is the one right to an honorable discharge of any shoe that has been a member of our company.

For Men or Women Who Are On Duty

We have some of the kind of shoes that have received the approval of authorities and those who wear them, for nurses, field workers, army and navy service.
